Pale grey units and slate flooring complement the chic, clean lines of the Bennetts' stunning new kitchen

Christine and Andrew chose Pale Grey Parapan units that are made from acrylic to create this sleek, uncluttered design. 'I originally thought of having cream cabinetry until a friend pointed out that my last kitchen was that colour,' smiles Christine

“The new kitchen has changed the way we live because we are a much tidier family now. We automatically put things away as leaving them out really spoils the room’s impact. Our guests love the scheme as well and they always migrate to the kitchen”

▼ The freestanding fridge freezer has been neatly recessed into the wall, backing into a utility room behind it. Tilly the dog is a big fan of the existing heating under the slate flooring, which has been sourced from Classical Flagstones

Enough storage space was a must for the Bennetts so designer James incorporated pull-out racks and shelves in some of the glossy grey units. A handy maple worktop helps to soften their cool look

▼ Christine found the glamorous silver gas-lift barstools that accompany her peninsula online. For similar seating in a range of colours, try Bombo
